

News from Room 1

November Edition

GOOD NEWS!!! Our class scored an 92% class average on the Light CMS test. We are always shooting for a 90% class average, and every grade counts! Fabulous job! Keep studying!!

Monthly Projects:

Our second monthly project has been handed out! These projects should be completed by the student. Parent help is recommended, especially for editing, but the researching, reading, writing, and ideas for the project should be done by the student. These projects are a great way for students to challenge themselves on their individual reading/writing level.

The November project paper can be found on the classroom website. Please don't hesitate to e-mail me with questions if you need clarification on what your child is required to do for the project. The project is due Dec. 4th.

Conferences:

Thank you so much to all parents that came in to meet with me on November 3rd. It was nice talking with you and discussing your son or daughter's progress. As I told the students a few days ago, a new marking period is a totally clean slate for grades, behavior, and assignments being turned in. Let's focus on what each child needs support in and help him/her improve in this coming marking period. Thanks for all your help at home!

Field Trip: - Originally the fifth grade was going to see A Christmas Carol play at George Mason University. Unfortunately, we have had a change of plans. We will now be reading the book Fantastic Mr. Fox and then we'll go to see the movie at AMC theaters. We'll have the whole theater to ourselves, so we won't have to worry about other patrons. We will be seeing a 10am showing of the program. Because of the PG rating of the movie, a permission slip will be coming home soon. The cost of the field trip will be 12 dollars. I will let you know the date (will occur in December) as soon as it is finalized.
